

Prof. Charles Omwandho

Biodata:

Charles is a Professor at the department of Biochemistry and served as Dean, School of Medicine at the University of Nairobi in 2010 to 2014. He was a member of the Joint Directors Consultative Committee, the highest technical advisory forum for East, Central and Southern African (ECSA) Health Community (2010 to 2014) and a founding Committee member for the development of concepts, strategies, business plans and Establishment of The ECSA College of Health Sciences in Arusha, Tanzania in 2013. He is currently the Deputy Vice Chancellor in charge of Academic and students Affairs at Kirinyaga University and a member of National Universities- Industry Collaborations Committee, Kenya. He has interests in the roles of placenta bound antibodies in immunobiology of reproduction and TGF Bettas in Endometriosis.

Topic:

Economic and social impacts of Endometriosis; Where do we go from here?